Halfway Home
Race, Punishment, and the Afterlife of Mass Incarceration

REUBEN JONATHAN MILLER
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR
UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO CROWN FAMILY SCHOOL
OF SOCIAL WORK, POLICY, AND PRACTICE

Tuesday, Feb. 23, 2021 | 6:30-7:45 p.m.
Zoom Registration: https://tinyurl.com/TJLectureSeries-ReubenMiller

In a public presentation and student-led seminar, Prof. Reuben Jonathan Miller will speak about the often hidden afterlife of mass incarceration: a nation of liminal citizens who are forever blocked from truly returning to democratic society. Discussing his highly anticipated and celebrated new book, Halfway Home: Race, Punishment and the Afterlife of Mass Incarceration, Prof. Miller asks us to confront a hard truth informed by his 15 years of research, ministry, and practice with currently and formerly incarcerated men, women, their families, partners, and friends: life after incarceration is its own kind of prison.